

Advent Contemplative Practice for Parents – Sacred Reading

This Advent season we invite you to journey with others from around the Minnesota Conference UCC through an ancient spiritual practice of sacred reading.

Lectio Divina, Latin for “divine reading,” is an experiential way of reading that engages the mind, heart, and imagination. This practice encourages participants to listen beneath and through the text rather than reading for comprehension or information – wandering unhurriedly through the passage or story, noticing what captures one’s attention and touches one’s soul.

Each week of Advent will feature a poem/blessing by the writer and artist, Jan Richardson, and Christmas will offer reflections by the writer and UCC minister, David Butler.

We hope you can make space amid the chaos and clamor of your days to pause – if only for a few moments – to be still. To simply be. Perhaps you will hear the whisper of the voice deep within your soul calling you to reconnect with the Source of Hope, Peace, Joy, and Love entering our lives in the most unexpected and surprising ways.

The Practice

PREPARE

Remember that this practice, like all spiritual practices, is an opportunity to experience grace not judgement. This is not a project to “get right” or a task to “get done” but a gift of time and space for listening to one’s self and the whisper of the Spirit.

For this practice you will need to find a quiet place where you will be (mostly) undisturbed. You will also need to have this practice available on your phone, tablet, or computer, or have a printed copy handy. You may want to gather a few additional materials to help you fully engage the practice: a journal or paper, pens/pencils with which to write or draw, and a single candle or an Advent wreath with candles.

CENTER

Settle in and get comfortable in your quiet place. Light your single candle or Advent candles, if you have them. Spend a few moments looking into the flickering light. Be still and aware of the sacred breath within you. Take three deep, mindful breaths. Rest in the gift of this moment.

READ & REFLECT: LISTEN

Read the week’s text, preferably aloud. Listen for a word or phrase that draws your attention. When you have finished reading the text, pause for at least a minute of silence. As you rest in the silence, repeat that word or phrase over and over again to yourself. You may find it helpful to write or draw the word repeatedly in a journal.

READ & REFLECT: PONDER

After holding the moment of silence, prepare to read the text again. Before you begin reading, ask yourself the question, “How does this text intersect or connect to my life?” Read the text slowly preferably aloud. After you finish reading, spend 2-3 minutes (or more) of silence reflecting on how this text may be speaking to your life in this moment. If it is helpful for you, spend this time writing or drawing in a journal.

READ & REFLECT: WONDER

As you prepare to read the text a final time, ask yourself the question, “What invitation is coming to me through these words?” Read the text slowly. After you finish reading, spend 3-4 minutes (or more) of silence listening to discover the Spirit’s invitation or encouragement for your life. You may choose to spend this time of reflection writing or drawing in a journal.

PRAY

As you finish your time of reflection and/or journaling, allow yourself to once again become still and aware of the sacred breath within you. Take three deep, mindful breaths, and pause to rest in this moment. During these final moments of silence, you may want to offer a brief prayer of thanksgiving for the gift of this time.

Week 1 Text - Hope

Blessing When the World is Ending

Look, the world
is always ending
somewhere.

Somewhere
the sun has come
crashing down.

Somewhere
it has gone
completely dark.

Somewhere
it has ended
with the gun,
the knife,
the fist.

Somewhere
it has ended
with the slammed door, the shattered hope.

Somewhere
it has ended
with the utter quiet
that follows the news from the phone,
the television,
the hospital room.

Somewhere
it has ended
with a tenderness
that will break
your heart.

But, listen,
this blessing means
to be anything
but morose.
It has not come
to cause despair.

It is simply here
because there is nothing a blessing is better suited for
than an ending,
nothing that cries out more
for a blessing
than when a world
is falling apart.

This blessing
will not fix you,
will not mend you,
will not give you
false comfort;
it will not talk to you
about one door opening
when another one closes.

It will simply
sit itself beside you
among the shards
and gently turn your face
toward the direction
from which the light
will come,
gathering itself
about you
as the world begins
again.

—Jan Richardson

<http://adventdoor.com/2014/11/23/advent-1-blessing-when-the-world-is-ending/>

Used by permission of the author, Jan Richardson (<https://www.janrichardson.com>)